TALBOT FEILD JR.

A proposal by State Rep. Talbot Feild, Jr. was adopted last week by the Legislative Council.

The proposal calls for a study to determine adequacies of the facilities of the various vocational technical schools in Arkansas for the purpose of determining whether such schools have and will continue to have adequate facilities to serve respective areas in which they are located.

Under this proposal a hearing will be set up and heads and other officials of technical schools will meet and discuss problems as well as finances.

The proposal is of particular interest here because of the Red River Vocational Technical School, although in operation only a year, is already taxed beyond capacity and has a long waiting list seeking to enter various classes. Facilities at the school at present will not permit increasing enrollment.

Showdown on Dodd Thursday

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — With Sen. Thomas J. Dodd pleading with colleagues not to "drag me through any more agony," the Senate headed toward a possible showdown by tonight or Thursday on the censure resolution against the Connecticut Democrat.

The white-haired Dodd, his voice trembling, asked for a vote Tuesday on the charge he double-billed the Senate and private groups for travel expenses.

"Make up your minds. If you want to brand me a thief do it today, before the sun goes down, and let me skulk away, ashamed to face you tomorrow," said Dodd.

"Give me a fair shake, give me a vote on this. Give me a night's sleep, either in sorrow or in grief."

Then Dodd, who earlier in the debate told his colleagues of sleepless nights and growing weariness, slumped back in his seat, hopeful of an immediate vote.

He didn't get it, but Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said later he thought the Senate would come to a vote by Thursday, if not tonight.

Dodd also is charged in the resolution offered by the Senate ethics committee with converting at least $116,083 in political funds to his personal use.

That charge is listed first in the resolution and members of the ethics panel have refused consent to Dodd and his principal defender, Sen. Russell B. Long, to vote on the double-billing charges first.

Dodd said "nothing has gnawed more at my heart" than the double-billing charge, adding: "Do I want my children, my grandchildren, to believe I was this kind of conniver?"

"It is important, it's of the gravest importance," said Dodd, "that my honor and my reputation of 60 years not be stained by the accusation of six petty thefts of $1,700." That is the approximate amount the ethics committee said the senator received through double-billings.

"You want to mark me as a thief? You want to put that brand on me?" Dodd cried. "I tell you I don't deserve it."

He said he had more arguments to present against the charge that he converted to his own benefit money raised through political testimonials and other political events. But he made clear he had no desire to delay judgment on this.

Dodd said no one wanted to bring the matter to a vote more flag. Also lost in the parliamentary shuffle was another amendment — adopted earlier — that would have made the bill apply only to knowing desecration of the flag.

Red-faced backers of the measure, passed 386 to 16, said later the omission didn't mean flag-burners would be immune if the bill becomes law. If it does, they added, the Senate can change the bill.

Violators of the law could be fined $1,000 and imprisoned for one year.

Rep. Cornelius E. Gallagher, D-N.Y., added to the sponsors' embarrassment by caustically commenting: "I suggest perhaps we have a bill-burning."

Debate on the measure — introduced after a much-publicized April flag-burning in New York's Central Park by Vietnam war protesters — featured visual displays by both sides.

Rep. James H. Quillen, R-Tenn., a sponsor, contrasted a photograph of the Marine flag-raising on Iwo Jima with a shot of the Central Park flag-burning.

Rep. William F. Ryan, D-N.Y., countered by displaying a beach bag with red and white stripes and white stars on a blue field and asked if defacing it would fall under the bill's provisions.

Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., worried that "the foundations of our democracy are so weak" that the House should debate all afternoon "because a bunch of crazy kids in Central Park engaged in what I consider a stupid act."

But the 16 votes against the measure came as a surprise to its backers.

"I don't see how anybody could be against it," said Rep. Joe D. Waggoner, D-La.

A prediction that passage of the measure "would only lead to an increase in the number of burnings" and make antiwar dissent more bitter was voiced by Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif.

than he did, "except possibly my wife and my family."

Mrs. Dodd has listened to the six-day debate from a front-row seat in the gallery reserved for senators' families.

Long, D-La., tried repeatedly to get an agreement to vote first on the double-billing charge, reversing the order of the counts in the censure resolution.

But failing in this, he said he would now offer his closing arguments in defense of the charge that Dodd misused political funds. Long estimated this might take him up to two hours.

Indications were that the voting, when it starts, will proceed in rapid-fire order on both counts and on any amendments offered to them.

State Cotton Prospects Improved

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Because of nearly ideal weather conditions the past few weeks Arkansas' cotton prospects improved, and the state's peach growers appear headed for a good season, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Heavy spring rains forced farmers to replant their cotton at least once this year, but recent warm nights have given a tremendous boost to plant growth. Some areas even welcomed more rain this week.

Eugene McInnes, officer in charge of the USDA Cotton Division Classing Office, said fields remain relatively free of weeds and grass and that most plants have grown out of the danger stage.

Peach growers are in the middle of their crop, Charles Hunley, market reporter for the USDA, said that the quality and size of peaches are running "real good all over."

Hunley said volume estimates for the season may be down a little from last year but he said shippers are thinking it will be about the same or a little more.

The size of peaches is exceptionally good this year, Hunley said, and this will increase the volume since it will take fewer peaches to fill a basket.

Prices are higher than they were at this stage last year. Prices ranged from $3.25 to $3.50 for three-quarter bushels last year. On shipments of red havens, sun havens, keystones and fair beauties this year prices are ranging from $5 to $5.50.

Ashdown Man Gets Conway County Post

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—James V. Travis, 24, of Ashdown, a state Welfare Department employee since 1965, has been named to succeed Carl Stobaugh of Morrilton as Conway County welfare director, state Welfare Commission Len Blaylock announced here Tuesday.

Stobaugh, the nephew of Conway County Sheriff Marlin Hawkins, was fired from the $4,7000-a-year position last February for what Blaylock said was illegal political activity. He was reinstated after appealing his case to the state Merit System Council, but Blaylock assigned him to Cleburne County.

Blaylock said Travis was selected because of his record as a placement counselor in the work experience training program in four southwest Arkansas counties. That project was phased out.

Travis, who assumed his new duties today, is a graduate of the Ashdown public schools. He spent two years at Texarkana Junior College and received a B.S. degree in history in education from Memphis State University.

Pryor's Bill to Eliminate Overlapping

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Rep. David Pryor, D-Ark., one of several Democratic representatives who have introduced a bill to establish a commission to evaluate federal programs, said Tuesday that such a commission could find ways to eliminate inefficiency and overlapping among the 400 federal grant programs administered by 21 departments and agencies and 125 bureaus and divisions.

"It is my hope that the findings of the commission will result in streamlining and consolidating certain programs and in eliminating those that are considered wasteful," Pryor said.

Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., presented the bill originally.

THIS KOOK SPOILS TROTH

Dear Helen: I am living with a very nice fellow. We have one daughter and are expecting our second child soon. I love him very much but—

He wants his two children from his ex-wife to be with him too, and the only way she'll let him have them is if she comes along with them.

He wants to get a house big enough for all of us. He says he doesn't care for her, but I'm afraid she lives here, he'll get to liking her again. He thinks she'll be a help to me and the baby, as she's a good cook and housekeeper. I'm able to help myself, and I cook fine. What would you advise?—WORRIED

Dear Worried: Tell him too many cooks would spoil the troth—no house is big enough for one man's two families.

But first, legalize your common-law marriage at a private, unpublicized ceremony your minister will perform.—H.

Dear Helen: Those parlor games for married people can lead to trouble. About two years ago my wife and I were invited to a party wherein the loser would get a public spanking by all the members of the opposite sex. With a long yellow cane. Almost everyone was a "loser" at some time in the evening.

We stopped going around with this crowd, but now comes the aftermath. As in every marriage there are occasional fights. We are both European, and were brought up to expect spankings at home and school. So now my wife insists that apologies are not enough—the mate in the wrong should receive a caning from the mate in the right. I remonstrated at first but she was adamant, and I got the first application of the cane.

The first time my wife admitted she was at fault, I wanted to forget the whole thing, but she wouldn't let me. Really, it's working fine.

Our marriage is as sweet and harmonious as ever, but once in a while this unusual punishment is meted out. Are we wrong?—V.O. and C.O.

Dear V and C: If your marriage is "sweet and harmonious," anything you do to keep it that way should be nobody's business but your own. . . but don't disturb the neighbors.—H.

Dear Helen: I'd like to tell you a lovely tale about a man who had the courage to love and marry a blind girl, despite her being overwight, ugly, and the most self-pitying person to walk the earth. This man has seen her through three operations, listened to grips galore, kept a house, worked at a job and sustained a marvelous sense of humor and perspective. He has also transformed the girl into a grateful, adoring, cheerful, and hopeful human being.

Helen, that man is my husband. His faith and inspiration have brought me back to life. I'll never again feel sorry for myself, for I'm too busy trying to make him as happy as he's made me.—THE LUCKIEST WIFE

Dear Helen: My brother is in the Air Force overseas. His new wife is living with my folks. She writes and gets him all upset by telling him how much work they make her do, and how much they charge her for room and board. They charge her nothing and she does no work—not even making up her own bed.

Then he writes and gives my folks "what for", so she told him not to write to his parents again. What should they do?—HURT

Dear Hurt: They should live up to what she says about them: Charge board, put her to work—and thank her kindly for giving them the idea.—H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble, or just plain trouble, let Helen help YOU. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of Hope Star. Copyright, 1967, Inc.

Mrs. Mao Is Most Powerful Chinese Lady

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP) — She stepped from the wings into the full glare of the footlights a year ago. Despite the jeers and envy of her critics, Chiang Ching remains the most powerful woman in her husband's China.

A few years ago, she apparently was a self-effacing housewife, content to remain in the enormous shadow of her eminent husband, Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung.

She shrugged off this role publicly in 1966 and took on a new one: defender of the Maoist faith.

Peering primly from behind steel-rimmed glasses, she has gained a wide reputation on the mainland for her razor-tongued criticisms of the Peking Opera, literature, art and theater.

Her work in this field has brought her one important job after the other, as advisor to the army's cultural purge, deputy chief of the party's purge committee and Red empress of Chinese arts.

Her pre-eminence in the world of Chinese women today is unchallenged.

Nor is Chiang Ching far from the top in the tough, swiftly changing world of Red China's men. She ranks somewhere among the first seven or eight closest politically to her 73-year-old husband.

Once she took over the job of cleansing the "revisionists" and "anti-Maoists," she worked hard among some of the most powerful men in the party. She is said to have had a hand in cutting down Marshal Hsu Hsiang-chien, once chairman of the army purge committee; Deputy Premier Tao Chu, the party propaganda chief, and Marshal Yen Hsiang-ting.

In one way or another, they dared to cross her; their seniority and fame failed to save them.

What transformed this once-obscure moth into the shining butterfly of Maoism?

The answer most generally accepted is that beginning in 1959 she saw Mao slipping, opposed, ignored and privately derided by President Liu Shao-chi and his followers.

Once an actress of some ability, she fought back in the area she knew best: the stage and screen. Stubbornness and a gift for expression — her speeches have been not only sharp but lively and well-organized — helped her along.

She knew what needed to be done, what Mao wanted and what was lacking.

Mao began his comeback in 1965 with massive criticism of a play called "Hai Jui Dismissed

Massive Diet Heart Tests Are Planned

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Heart specialists urged today a go-ahead with a massive test involving 40,000 to 60,000 men to answer a critical health question:

Would changes from typical American food habits really produce some insurance against heart attacks, the nation's leading killer disease?

Many experts believe that such changes — especially cutting down on intake of fats and cholesterol — do help prevent coronary attacks.

It is known that the amount of cholesterol in the blood stream can be reduced this way. The tantalizing question is whether this step then saves lives.

Getting the answer would call for enlisting a small army of volunteers. Half the men would change their food habits somewhat and stick with it for five years. The other half would, for comparison, go on eating as they do now.

If, five years later, men who changed their food habits suffered fewer heart attacks than those who didn't change, it would be clear proof that most Americans have been eating their way toward heart attacks, but should not and need not.

But would many thousands of men, and their wives, agree to give up some old habits for new and stay with it?

The answer to that is yes, the Executive Committee on Diet and Heart Disease told the American Medical Association today.

It reported results of a two-year feasibility study preparing the way for the huge experiment. Some 2,400 middle-aged men took part, some changing food habits and others not, and only 10 per cent dropped out of the study.

The blood cholesterol of those who ate special diets came down by an over-all average of 11 per cent. Cholesterol is a body material involved in the narrowing and blocking of heart arteries.

The committee declared that the longer and larger-scale study should be planned and started as soon as possible in view of the current epidemic of heart attacks.

It would cost perhaps $30 million to $50 million, "but the answer would be cheap at twice the price," said Dr. E. Cowles Andrus of Baltimore, presenting results of the diet-heart study.

The committee report will be given to the National Heart Institute, the financing agency, with the recommendation that a larger study be undertaken. Setting it up would take at least two years.

from Office," written by Peking's deputy mayor, Wu Han. Mao charged it assailed him and his 1959 dismissal of Defense Minister Lin Biao's predecessor, Marshal Peng Teh-huai.

It was Chiang Ching who put Mao onto the subversive thread running through the play. Maoists now date the beginning of the purge from the criticism of that play.

Can Get Only That 42 Miles

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — When Wally E. Ripple goes courting in his red German-made bus, he gets 42 miles. No further.

Ripple, 22, a physics major at California State College at Los Angeles, converted the machine himself.

His car is powered by 16 six-volt batteries which run two landing-gear motors from an old airplane.

Offers to Reinstate UA Worker

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Storm Whaley, University of Arkansas' vice president for health sciences, offered Mrs. Bernice M. Rice of Little Rock reinstatement Tuesday to her job in the dietary department at the university's Medical Center.

Mrs. Rice was fired from the $184-a-month job June 1 and she filed a lawsuit last week contending that she had been wrongfully fired.

Whaley extended the reinstatement offer in a letter to Mrs. Rice. Her attorney, David L. Hale, advised her to accept by reporting to work today.

Mrs. Rice's suit contends that she was fired because of membership in the Public Employees Protective Association of the Medical Center. She said she was absent from her job from May 28 until June 5 because of illness, but that she had telephoned her immediate superior May 30 to explain the situation.

Whaley's letter said there was no record of the call and that her dismissal apparently had been based on the assumption that she had left her job.

Muscular Rheumatism Less Serious Form of Arthritis

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—A relative of mine in her early 40s has a gritty sound on movement and much pain in her neck and upper spine. Could this be arthritis? How can further calcium deposits be prevented?

A—In chronic osteoarthritis and rheumatoid arthritis roughening of the joint surface occurs. This roughening rather than excessive calcium deposits are the most likely cause of the symptoms mentioned.

Q—My husband suffers at night with arthritis in his knee. He has been taking Measurin. Will this have any bad effects?

A—Measurin is the prolonged-action aspirin designed to help persons with chronic arthritis. Because it may cause bleeding in the stomach or intestines, anyone who takes it regularly should have a periodic blood count.

Q—Are muscular rheumatism and rheumatic arthritis the same? How serious are they? What is the cure, if any?

A—In muscular rheumatism it is the muscles rather than the joints that are involved. This is less serious than rheumatoid arthritis because it is less crippling. These diseases can be treated but are rarely cured. The treatment depends on the type of involvement, the cause and whether the disease is acute or chronic. The therapy makes use of aspirin, hydrocortisone and various other drugs; heat and other forms of physical therapy; and emphasizes the rules of healthful living.

Q—If arthritis is caused by a virus, as some say, could this in some cases be the influenza virus?

A—A variety of infectious diseases may be associated with arthritis. These include rheumatic fever, undulant fever, typhoid, tuberculosis and German measles. Of these German measles is the only one caused by a virus. Influenza is bad enough without its involving the joints.

Q—My husband hasn't walked for about 16 years because of rheumatoid arthritis. He has taken Decadron for the past eight years. Would an operation on his knee to remove the calcium deposits help him? Would vitamin B-6 help him?

A—Your husband's trouble is not so much an accumulation of calcium as a destruction of the joint.

One of the saddest results of bridge crimes is that there usually is an innocent victim. North had a mighty good diamond bid and we have no quarrel with his jump to three clubs or his five-heart slam try.

Then we don't know exactly how South should have bid his hand. Probably he should merely have bid three hearts over three clubs and then bid four spades after his partner had raised hearts. A player who bids one heart and then jumps to four hearts really needs a better trump suit than seven to the ace-ten.

After North's bid of five hearts we felt that South should have bid six hearts and should not have invited a grand slam by his spade cue bid so we must charge South with an overbid. We also charge North. He had a right to expect a stronger heart suit in the South hand but there was no guarantee that there wouldn't be a side loser and you should not bid grand slams when there is any doubt about the outcome.

Anyway, North and South did get to seven with no play for it. Then East committed a real crime and South brought the contract home.

It didn't require any special skill on South's part except that South did not explode when he saw the dummy. Instead he won the spade lead with dummy's king and Twentieth century pace triggers new dimensions in every day living. 1967 can be termed the year of the "look-again" look. Why? Nothing is quite as simple as it seems! There's a "two-in-one" trend coming into play — transportation, even candy mints.

The newest design for air transportation — a supersonic air transport — has proven to be an eye-opener even to the ready-for-anything jet set. When taking off, landing or flying at low altitudes this sleek craft gives no indication that it is in fact a supersonic chameleon. But once it reaches its cruising altitude, "look again".

The craft's needle-like nose straightens out, its wide wings sweep back and the pilot shifts into high. Before long he's barreling along at an altitude of 13.3 miles at a flying speed of 1,800 miles per hour. This means the plane is traveling one mile for every two beats of a nervous passenger's heart.

Another example of the surprise dimension is Certs Mints. They come in a handy little roll — look like — and taste like — a package of candy . . . come in seven delicious flavors.

Double Pleasure

played the jack of hearts. East covered with the queen. South played his ace, dropped the innocent victim's king and made his impossible grand slam.

Double Pleasure

East had no expectation of beating the contract. South had bid like a man with the ace and king of hearts at the head of a seven card suit but people don't always have what they should and East should have played low.

Q—The bidding has been:

You, South, hold:

What do you do now?

A—Double. Your opponents have not bid with any great confidence and things aren't going to break nicely for declarer.

Grand Slam Shatters the Yankees

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Joe Foy, unnerved by a near shattering experience two days ago, has pulled himself together in time to take apart the New York Yankees.

Foy arrived in New York in time to lead his parents from their burning house Sunday night, but playing the hero left him plenty shaken up.

"I had so much on my mind," it's a good thing we were rained out Monday night," said the Boston Red Sox third baseman. But by Tuesday night, Foy recovered enough to step into the hero's role again 13 blocks away at Yankee Stadium where his grand slam home run helped shatter the New York Yankees 7-1.

In the only other American League games scheduled, Washington splintered the Chicago White Sox 4-2, Detroit nipped California 2-1, and Cleveland topped Kansas City 5-3.

In the National League, St. Louis beat Houston 6-2, the Chicago Cubs upended Pittsburgh 5-3, Philadelphia blanked the New York Mets 4-0, San Francisco halted Cincinnati 5-1, and Los Angeles tumbled Atlanta 3-2 in 15 innings.

Foy, who stays with his parents when the Red Sox play in New York, found their house in the Bronx on fire and his mother and father struggling through the smoke. He helped them out and then could only watch while the blaze devoured the top two floors and badly damaged the first floor.

He was busy Monday during the rain, relocating his parents with his brother and sister.

He pulled himself away long enough to turn his attention back to baseball, further dismissing any Red Sox worries about his recent hitting slump.

Foy, entering the game with a .240 average, unloaded against Mel Stottlemyre in the fifth inning after two walks and a hit loaded the bases.

The blast, his second major league slam, gave him five homers and 14 runs batted in since he was benched for two days June 6 with a .192 average. Carl Yastrzemski made the fifth a five-run inning with his 17th homer following Foy.

Gary Bell, 1-4 before Cleveland traded him to Boston June 4, breezed to his third victory in four decisions with the Red Sox. "I've pitched better with Boston than with Cleveland," Bell said, "but the runs have made the difference. The Indians scored only nine runs in my nine starts with them, but Boston has already gotten me 17."

The Senators took advantage of some rare misgives by the league - leading White Sox for their victory. Leading 2-1 in the sixth inning, Mike Epstein tried to score from second base on Paul Casanova's single to center, but Tommy Agee threw him out. However, the umpires ruled third baseman Don Buford obstructed Epstein and the run was allowed.

The Senators got another gift run in the seventh when Ed Stroud was hit by a pitch, went all the way to third on a wild pitch and scored on an error.

Detroit had to come from behind against reliever George Brunet in the eighth inning. Al Kaline doubled in Don Wert, who had been hit by a pitch, and then Jim Northrup's single scored Kaline. The Angels led entering the inning on Woody Held's fourth inning homer.

Luis Tiant of Cleveland hit a solo homer and hurled a two-hitter for eight innings, but needed hitting and pitching help. Lee Maye also homered, Max Alvis singled in a run.

Jackson Again Beats New York

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
Larry Jackson has tossed another curve at the law of averages - and the New York Mets are still waiting for it to break their way.

Jackson, Philadelphia's 36-year-old Met killer, borrowed a pitch from teammate Jim Bunning Tuesday night and beat New York for the 18th time without a loss, firing the second one-hitter of his career as the Phillies breezed to a 4-0 victory. Jackson's 18-0 record against the Mets is second only to San Francisco's Juan Marichal, who has beaten the expansion club 19 times without a setback.

Marichal, however, is proving he can get along without the Mets. While Jackson was closing in on his anti-Met mark, the Giants' ace became the first 10-game winner in the majors by overwhelming Cincinnati's slumping Reds 5-1 on a five-hitter.

Elsewhere, the Chicago Cubs upended Pittsburgh 5-3; St. Louis whipped Houston 6-2 and Los Angeles nipped Atlanta 3-2 in 15 innings.

In the American League, Washington knocked off Chicago 4-2; Boston slammed New York 7-1; Detroit edged California 2-1 and Cleveland outscored Kansas City 5-3. Baltimore and Minnesota were not scheduled.

Tommy Davis' second inning double - which barely eluded right fielder Johnny Callison's leaping grasp - was the only hit off Jackson, who registered his first victory over the Mets in their April 11, 1962 debut, while he was working for St. Louis.

The crafty right-hander hasn't let the Mets out of his hip pocket since then - but he still doesn't take them for granted. He attributed his one-hitter to a new curve ball he picked up from Bunning.

"I've changed my grip," Jackson said. "I'm choking up on the ball and holding it like Bunning does. He's got such a great curve - and mine never was much."

"Now I wish I'd started throwing it 10 years ago," Jackson pitched his first one-hitter three years ago against Cincinnati. He has hurled 33 career shutouts - six of them against New York.

The Phillies gave him a quick sendoff with three runs in the first inning on Tony Taylor's single, Rich Allen's triple and Don Lock's sixth homer. They added a run in the fourth on Lock's single and a double by Gene Oliver.

Marichal, who missed his last turn because of a pinched nerve in his neck, was clipped for two hits and a run in the first inning but stymied the Reds thereafter while boosting his record to 10-5.

The Giants roughed up Mel Queen, 8-2, for two runs in the second and knocked him out in a two-run sixth. Jim Hart led a triple and two singles, scored two runs and knocked in a pair as the injury-riddled Reds went down to their fourth straight defeat.

Rookie, Chuck Hartenstein blanked Pittsburgh over the final 4 2-3 innings as the Cubs ended the Pirates' winning string at three games. Ron Santo and Ted Savage paced Chicago's 14-hit attack with three hits apiece, Santo driving in two runs.

Hartenstein rescued starter Joe Niekro after Donn Clendenon's three-run homer in the fifth lifted the Pirates within one run.

Dal Maxvill drilled a tie-breaking triple in the seventh inning and Orlando Cepeda cracked a three-run homer in the eighth as the Cardinals pulled away from the Astros and increased their league lead over second-place Cincinnati 1 1/2 games.

Houston's Julio Gotay stroked two hits for a club record of eight in a row before winning pitcher Larry Jaster ended the streak.

Atlanta reliever Claude Raymond filled the bases in the 15th inning with an intentional pass to pinch hitter Ron Fairly, then forced home the winning run by walking John Roseboro.

The Dodgers' second straight one-run nod over the Braves gave them a run of six victories in their last seven games - including four in a row.

that they got a break in the make-up of the advisory committee.

The three members of the Advisory Committee have not been named.

In giving up a greater voice in the control of the tour, the PGA retained its veto power which it considers a strong point.

Clay Plans to Appeal Conviction

HOUSTON (AP) - Lawyers for heavyweight champion Cassius Clay had an appeal motion ready today in the boxer's conviction on criminal charges of refusing induction for military service. They predicted eventual victory and said that jail is 18 months away at worst.

It took one day of testimony and motions and 21 minutes of jury deliberation for the verdict Tuesday. U.S. Dist. Judge Joe Ingraham imposed the maximum sentence, five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Clay said he had expected the worst, but he and his lawyers appeared shaken by the quickness of it all.

He walked from the courtroom free under the same $5,000 bond posted after his indictment in May for refusing to take the one step forward into the Army with other draftees.

In two court rulings Ingraham had destroyed the intended defense: that Clay, a Negro, is discriminated against by the racial composition of draft boards, and that Clay, as Muhammad Ali, traveling bishop for the Black Muslims, is entitled to ministerial exemption from military duty.

Chief defense lawyer Hayden Covington of New York, said he saw a "better than even chance" for reversal of the conviction.

The appeal initiated today will be argued before the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans. Covington estimated it would be December or January before the panel could hear the case, which involved crates of files.

Covington said a decision would not be forthcoming from the Appellate Court until sometime next spring, and if the decision is against Clay the case would go to the Supreme Court three months later. He said the high court's decision, if it agreed to hear the case could not be expected until late in 1968.

Clay will remain free under bond until the matter is heard by the highest court. If a new trial is ordered, Clay again would appeal a fresh conviction along the same, slow road.

Simultaneously, Clay's legal team is fighting before the 5th Circuit Court for trial in the fighter's civil suit alleging draft board and religious discrimination.

Covington predicted before the legal battles began that Clay never would spend a night in jail. He repeated that opinion after the verdict, saying, "He hasn't yet."

Clay spent the night at a luxury hotel in Houston, the city he adopted as home after a fight in its Astrodome.

In undermining first one and then the other of Clay's two main defense points, Ingraham left Covington and co-counsel Quinlan Hodges of Houston the argument before the jury of six men and six women that Clay was "sincere" in refusing to be drafted.

First the judge held that the defense allegation of draft board discrimination would be an inadmissible conclusion in Clay's trial. Then, answering a lengthy plea for directed verdict of acquittal, he told Clay and his lawyers with the jury out of hearing that he had found a basis for the Selective Service's action in classifying the 25-year-old fighter 1-A, ripe for the draft.

Coaches Tournament Underway

CHEROKEE VILLAGE, Ark. (AP) - The giants of the college coaching ranks stand tall on the football field, but somehow they looked less imposing on the golfing greens here Tuesday.

Darrell Royal of the University of Texas rolled up a brilliant 100-foot putt that just barely trickled past the No. 9 hole, for instance, then missed it coming back.

And Royal is one of the favorites in the third annual Coaches Invitational Golf Tournament that begins here today.

His rivals toured the 6,271-yard Cherokee Village course duck-hooking tee shots, missing even shorter putts and banging their approach shots into sand traps like ordinary humans playing for quarter seats or a $1 Nassau.

Arkansas' Frank Broyles, runner-up in the first two tournaments and a favorite along with Royal in this one, turned in a five-over-par 77. It was the best score turned in all day.

Broyles shot a one-over-par 73 Monday.

Can he do it again today? "Not with the pressure on," he said with a grin.

Royal and the other members of his foursome, Paul "Bear" Bryant of the University of Alabama, Johnny Vaught of the University of Mississippi and Jack Stevens, a Little Rock investment man, took off for their fifth nine-hole round shortly before 6 p.m.

Most of the other coaches and sportswriters were out all day, too, playing a minimum of 27 holes, just to get a second crack at the treacherous front nine.

On the No. 6 hole, a long dog-leg to the right, Royal purposely hit his drive into the neighboring fairway, leaving himself a clear shot at the green.

"I just took a smart pill," said Bryant, and he followed suit.

The coaches with a handicap of 10 or less are Royal, Broyles, Gene Stallings of Texas A&M, Chuck Fairbanks of the University of Oklahoma, Glenn Dobbs of the University of Tulsa, Tom Harp of Duke and Bill Murray, formerly of Duke and now president of the American Football Coaches Association.

Fairbanks, who played a lot of tournament golf between the ages of 17 and 22 and played in two Michigan state amateur tournaments, shot a 79 on the first of two 18-hole rounds. Stallings had a 78, and Jim Pittman of Tulane had an 80.

J. T. King of Texas Tech, the defending champion, turned in a 91.

The practice-round scores were used to determine handicaps and pairings. The coaches and sportswriters will play 18-hole rounds today and Thursday.

Allen Gilbert Jr. of the Northwest Arkansas Times at Fayetteville is the defending champion in the sports writers division.

Ara Parseghian of Notre Dame, Dan Devine of the University of Missouri and Johnny McKay of the University of Southern California canceled out Tuesday.

Russia Sends 50 Planes to Egypt

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence information indicates Communist European nations have sent Egypt about 50 MIG jet fighters since the Israelis smashed Egypt's air force in the recent Mideast war. American sources also said replacement of Egyptian tanks has been relatively slight so far. They disputed claims of Israeli military sources here that the Soviet Union and other Communist countries have been pouring in equipment and supplies to replace Egypt's staggering losses in the brief Sinai campaign and the lightning Israeli air strikes that preceded it. Israeli military sources told a reporter the Soviets, Czechs and other Communist European countries have sent 150 to 200 MIGs to Egypt by direct flight or by ship. "They'll be on their feet in six months," said one Israeli officer.

But U.S. sources said the resupply flow was considerably less than pictured by the Israelis. These sources said it appeared some Communist European MIGs might have been sent to Egypt as a kind of loan to provide security for the country, virtually stripped of its air power in the early hours of the war when the Israeli air force smashed hundreds of Egyptian planes on the ground.

The Americans said there were about 100 MIGs which survived the Israeli air strikes. Israeli military sources said hundreds of tons of Communist supplies have been landed in Egypt. They said the total included a shipment of tanks from Algeria.

American officers said a check of the reported shipload of tanks resulted in the conclusion there were only five of the armored vehicles delivered by the Algerian vessel to Egypt.

The Americans did not challenge the claim that supplies and equipment were entering the country, but they said the volume was not especially large and could be a carry-over of material en route before the war started June 5.

U.S. officers said in the past that Israeli claims of damage inflicted on the Arabs in the fighting proved quite accurate. They also voiced admiration for Israeli intelligence which permitted Israeli pilots to ignore dummy airplanes standing on the Egyptian air strips and to concentrate their fire on the real MIGs.

Israel has claimed to have destroyed 451 Arab aircraft, including 357 Egyptian planes.

The Israelis claimed to have destroyed or captured some 600 of Egypt's 900 tanks, some of which they used when they moved against the Syrians late in the six-day war.

Negroes Used to Get Votes of Negroes

By WILLIAM T. PEACOCK
WASHINGTON (AP) — The field generals — each a Negro — of Democratic and Republican efforts to woo Negro voters for 1968 already are crisscrossing the country.

With a close presidential election in prospect, these two parties are intensively seeking to strengthen organization in their competition for ballots of Negroes.

Ask Democrat Louis Martin if he will be in town next day and he is apt to reply, "No, I've got to go to Cleveland and then I'm going on to Chicago."

Drop into the office of Republican Clarence Townes Jr., and he probably is tied up for the moment on a long-distance telephone call — perhaps to Cleveland or Chicago.

Ask Townes where he expects Negro voting to be most crucial and he ticks off: "New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois and California," adding as an afterthought, "Then there's New Jersey, Maryland and Missouri."

The first six states are among the seven most populous and together have 185 of the 270 electoral votes needed to win the presidency.

All went to Lyndon B. Johnson in the 1964 election but, except for Illinois, all now have Republican governors.

The Negro vote which could be pivotal in these states is largely concentrated in big cities.

18 Britons Are Killed in Aden

By RODNEY PINDER
LONDON (AP) — The British government's plans to leave Aden and the South Arabian Federation in January were threatened today by a mutiny in the South Arabian army which resulted in the death of 18 Britons and an undetermined number of Arabs.

Twenty-three Britons also were wounded before calm was reported restored Tuesday night to the Aden area in the southwest corner of the Arabian Peninsula.

The belief was widespread in London that British government would have to take a new look at its plans, announced Monday, to give independence about Jan. 9 to the federation made up of Aden State and 16 sultanates and sheikhdoms strung along the southwest coast of Arabia.

Foreign Secretary George Brown told the House of Commons Monday that Britain would keep a strong naval force in South Arabian waters and a force of bombers within easy reach for six months after independence to guard the federation against aggression. But the government counted on the native army it is training and equipping to preserve order within the federation.

The Foreign Office attributed the mutiny to disputes in the 8,500-man army over "conditions of service and intertribal rivalries." The discontent apparently was brought to a head by the suspension four days ago of four colonels for unexplained "disciplinary reasons."

Although the Foreign Office refused to amplify its statement, it was believed the rivalry stemmed from the recent merger of the former federal army trained by Britain since 1961, in which British officers have been steadily replaced by Arab officers who worked their way up, and the federal guard made up of former police units and personal troops of the various sheikhs.

Trouble broke out first at the Lake Lines barracks in the Sheikh Othman district, where young apprentice soldiers rioted, set fire to some buildings, freed prisoners and prevented British officers from entering the camp.

Arab officers broke up that mob, but the trouble spread to the Champion Lines camp in the same area. There rebellious soldiers sacked the armory and seized its weapons.

The federation government called on British troops to help quell the revolt, and violence erupted in the Crater district, a hotbed of Arab nationalism.

Fighting raged throughout the day. Officials said 17 of the 18 British dead and 22 of the 23 wounded were soldiers. The other two were civilians.

Roosevelt, these votes have been heavily Democratic.

In 1964, some Negro precincts ran as high as 99 per cent for Johnson over Republican Barry Goldwater.

The Republican National Committee's figures claim the GOP got about 4 per cent of the Negro vote in 1964 but came back in the 1966 congressional and gubernatorial elections, capturing about 14 per cent.

Republican Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois cut into the normally Democratic Negro vote in Chicago. Gov. George Romney and Sen. Robert P. Griffin, scoring Republican victories in Michigan, got better than expected support among Detroit Negroes.

Townes' goal is to get 30 per cent of the Negro vote for his party in 1968.

Martin professes no concern that many Negro Democrats might heed Republican blandishments.

"The Negro electorate," he said, "is about as sophisticated as any segment of American society. They know where their best interest is. They recognize who is doing what."

Martin said it is true that some Democratic programs aimed at poverty and Negro problems have not accomplished all that was hoped.

"However imperfect these programs are, there is no alternative," he continued.

"The big point is that we started them."

"The GOP is the party of fine rhetoric but no action. The President has demonstrated where he stands. He named the first Negroes to the Cabinet and the Supreme Court."

Draft Bill Is Signed Into Law

By ROBERT A. HUNT
WASHINGTON (AP) — A draft law extension bill that guarantees deferments for most college students, targets 19-year-olds for earliest induction and bars a lottery selection system awaits only President Johnson's signature to become law.

The final version of the bill, hammered into shape by House-Senate conferees, was sent to the President Tuesday by a 377-29 House vote. The Senate accepted the compromise version last week.

In its final form, the legislation more closely resembles recommendations of a panel headed by retired Gen. Mark Clark, which reported to the House Armed Services Committee, than those from a presidential commission under Burke Marshall, a former assistant attorney general.

Existing authority for the military draft expires June 30. The new legislation continues most provisions of the present law in effect, with some changes, until 1971.

The proposal permits Johnson to follow through on his announced intention of putting an emphasis on induction of 19-year-olds. In the past, older men in the 19-26 age group were drafted first but this pool has dwindled to the point that younger eligibles now are meeting most monthly quotas.

But the bill specifically prohibits Johnson from changing the present selection method by using a national lottery system as he had suggested. An act of Congress would be required before such a change could be made. The Marshall commission had supported the switch while Clark's panel opposed a lottery in any form.

Under the new proposal, any requesting undergraduate college student would be entitled to a deferment to continue his courses so long as he met scholastic and other standards of his school. Student deferments now are granted by local draft boards but the pending legislation makes it a matter of law.

The student no longer would have to stay in the upper half of his class, a requirement often stipulated by local boards.

The deferments would be effective until the student finishes his undergraduate work, reaches age 24 or leaves school, whichever comes first. He then would revert to the top of the age group most vulnerable to induction.

Negro Women Win Florida Elections

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Two Negro women, the first of their race to sit on the Jacksonville City Council since Reconstruction days, were elected Tuesday in an election that left only one incumbent in office.

The two women, both widowed schoolteachers, also were the first women ever elected to the council in this northeastern Florida city.

Sallye B. Mathis won her seat by almost 5,000 votes while Mary B. Singleton ran unopposed in the general election Tuesday. Mrs. Mathis got 19,416 votes to 14,528 for C. Ted Forsythe Jr.

Both women were swept into office in a clean-sweep Democratic victory that included wins in all seven contested races.

The election left only one incumbent councilman, Lavern Reynolds, in office. He ran unopposed.

Jacksonville voters tossed out the other incumbents in the primaries. The shakeup came after a grand jury last year indicted eight city officials. Reynolds publicly denounced three fellow councilmen who kept their jobs after being indicted.

New Troubles Spring Out of Old Grudges

The historic Russian policy under both the Czars and the Communists has been to seek warm-water ports on the Mediterranean and thus compensate themselves for the handicap of Arctic Ocean ports which are closed by ice for half the year.

This very practical objective rather than any Communist ideology would explain why Russia helped provoke the recent Israeli-Arabian war, trusting that its outcome would provide Moscow with year-round access to ocean commerce. It didn't work out that way; the Israelis whipped the Arabs in less than a week—and now Russia is trying to save face before the world by demanding that the United Nations intervene at the end of a war whose beginning it chose to ignore.

This paradox of trouble came about, of course, from the ancient grudge existing between Arab and Jew. And much of the world's troubles today can be traced back to similar grudges elsewhere.

DeGaulle's France doesn't care for our United States at the present writing, and it's a good bet that you can think of at least two grudges she holds against us. The average American feels France welched on a 6-billion-dollar war debt due us and is a nation of ingrates for forgetting that we twice rescued her from defeat and slavery to the Germans. Nevertheless France holds a couple of grudges against us.

No. 1: France was in Vietnam before our time there. She was trying to hold onto the remnants of a colonial empire. Her army bungled the job badly, and in desperation France called on the United States for help. But we weren't in the business of saving colonial empires for Europeans. And we told France so. And that was what we should have told her. But you can understand why today France couldn't care less what happens to America bogged down in another Vietnam war.

No. 2: French investors owned the Suez Canal. They had built it under a long-term treaty with Egypt. When Dictator Nasser canceled the treaty and grabbed the canal France and Britain sent armed forces to recover Suez. But the United States intervened in behalf of Nasser and the Arabs. On this particular gambit we didn't look good. And we look worse as the years go by.

Our Suez adventure further alienated the French and didn't help us with Nasser and the Arabs.

That's how history goes—writing grudges into wars, with new grudges arising from old wars—as long as time shall run.

Aid Cut to Six School Districts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six more school districts, including the Lawson District in Union County, Ark., have been cut off from federal funds because of violations of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare announced here Tuesday.

Eligibility for federal assistance may be restored as soon as a district complies with the law, the department said.

U.S. Troops Urged to Desert

LONDON (AP) — An organization in Britain which urges U.S. troops to desert is being investigated by Britain's director of public prosecutions, Attorney-General Sir Elwyn Jones told the House of Commons Monday. Jones said Peter Blaker, a Conservative member of Commons, had asked for the investigation of the Vietnam Information Group.

Blaker said the group should be prosecuted for publishing pamphlets from a British address "urging United States servicemen to desert."

Red Technicians Leave Indonesia

$765,000 St. To Accompany Daughter Program Is Planned

Hope City Directors meeting jointly with the City Planning Commission last night voted a $765,000 street improvement program calling for new paving, curb and gutter on eight streets, all designated as primary thoroughfares.

The project, without federal aid, would mean the levying of a five-mill property tax and a city-wide vote on the proposal which is expected to come in early September.

The property tax is estimated to yield $275,000. Funds from other sources include a pledge of $275,000 from water and light revenues; $125,000 from a new city $5 automobile license tax; and $90,000 from parking meter funds.

Cost estimates for the eight designated primary streets were prepared by the Texarkana engineering firm of John E. Hawkins & Associates. Mr. Hawkins and Donald Walker appeared before the city group last night to answer various questions concerning the project.

Street improvement has long been a subject before the planning commission and the city directors, and when the time came for a decision, there was not a single dissenting vote. The final decision will be up to the electors, tentatively set for early September.

The bond issue would be set up on a 20-year basis, but would actually pay out in about 13 years or less. Reason for the 20-year figure is to provide what bond people call a "cushion," a legal instrument or technicality in issuing the bonds.

With the approval of the electors in September, the engineers would then begin work on detailed plans and specifications which would require about two months. Later in the year time would be required for advertising of bids—and later on the

Most Controversial Border of This Day Isn't a Political One

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Border crossings are often controversial. They have been throughout history.

But the most controversial border today isn't a political border. The one that most people are anxious about isn't even on any map—it's the bordering between youth and middle age.

Many who have crossed it deny that they have; others cross it without ever realizing it.

How then can one tell reliably if one is middle-aged? Well, actions speak louder than prose.

Here is a tentative guide, based on actual conduct. You're probably middle-aged if:

When a new neighbor moves in next door, you automatically assume he'll be worse than the one you just moved away.

You find yourself muttering to all who will listen, "I don't want any more trouble. All I want is a little peace and quiet."

When you yawn in public, you no longer bother to apologize. You realize that a public yawn is about the most honest act a man does in life.

You have forgotten the name of the red-haired girl who turned you down for a date in high school, but you can name the hour and day just how far away you are from a pension.

Angry House Passes Legislation Against Flag-Burning-Sort Of

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, spurred by a recent anti-war demonstration in New York, has passed legislation against flag-burning-sort of.

What actually emerged Tuesday from a parliamentary maelstrom was a measure that would make desecration of the American flag a federal crime but fails to specify flag burning as such a desecration.

Burning originally was in the bill along with defacing, defiling, mutilating or trampling on the flag or any representation of it.

But the burning section inadvertently was dropped in a wrangle over a defeated proposal defining desecration as knowingly casting contempt upon the

Brutality Is Charged

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The Belgian Foreign Ministry charged today that M. Van der Steen, a Belgian technician, was subjected to "odious brutalities" by police in the Congo.

Informed sources said that Van der Steen had been badly beaten and that his right ear and all the fingers of his right hand had been cut off. He is under treatment at the Lubumbashi military hospital. The Congolese police were reported to have arrested Van der Steen in Mutshassa, in Katanga Province, after a bridge was dynamited.

Belgian consular authorities in Katanga were reported trying to stop Belgian technicians from quitting their jobs because of the incident. Sources in Brussels said a few spontaneous strikes have already occurred.

Red Leaders Leave U.S. for Egypt

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Britain and Egypt took over the U.N. debate on the Middle East today as Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny journeyed to Cairo and a meeting between President Johnson and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin appeared less and less likely.

British Foreign Secretary George Brown headed the morning speakers' list before the 122-nation General Assembly. He was expected to urge appointment of a U.N. mediator to get peace talks started at once with Israel and the Arab side.

Egyptian Vice President Mahmoud Fawzi was certain to echo Arab demands for unconditional Israeli withdrawal from territory it seized during the lightning war.

Also scheduled to speak were Danish Premier Jens Otto Krag, who has been urging that Johnson and Kosygin meet; Italian Premier Aldo Moro, and Yugoslav Premier Mika Spiljak, whose government strongly supports Egypt.

Podgorny's visit to Cairo for talks with President Gamal Abdel Nasser was seen as another Soviet move to restore Moscow's fallen prestige in the Arab world. So were reports in Egypt of new arms shipments from the Soviet Union.

The Egyptian press has been assailing Moscow for lack of support during the war and Soviet failure to back up Arab charges that Israel won because of armed support by the United States and Britain. The anti-Soviet comments disappeared, however, as word spread in the Egyptian capital that arms shipments from the Soviet Union had resumed.

Cairo's semiofficial newspaper Al Ahrar said Marshal Matvei V. Zakharov, chief of staff of the Soviet armed forces, arrived in the Egyptian capital Tuesday ahead of Podgorny. The Soviet president stopped overnight in Yugoslavia to confer with President Tito.

At U.N. headquarters, hope was fading among diplomats that Johnson would meet Kosygin. Indications were that both leaders were willing, but Johnson did not want to come to New York and Kosygin would not go to Washington.

U.S. officials said Monday Johnson had invited the premier to visit him but Kosygin declined, saying he had come to New York to attend the assembly and not to visit U.S. authorities.

White House press secretary George Christian said Tuesday in Washington Johnson would be glad to see Kosygin "here or at Camp David or at some other convenient place nearby."

"Then he won't see Kosygin," said one Communist diplomat. But he added that if the President came to New York, a meeting would be possible.

Kosygin entertained Arab leaders Tuesday at a reception at the Soviet U.N. mission. Among those attending were Syrian President Nureddin Atassi and Sudanese Premier Ahmed Mahgoub. Later Italy's Premier Moro was Kosygin's dinner guest.

DeGaulle Blames Both Vietnam and Middle East Wars on the U.S.

Fighting in Two Areas Intensified

By GEORGE MCARTHUR
SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. and South Vietnamese commands today reported intensified Communist probes and clashes in the central highlands and the 1st Corps area south of the demilitarized zone—the two current danger points of the Vietnam war.

Particular concern was expressed about the situation in the highlands, where a Communist offensive is expected with the monsoon rains now drenching the jungles.

American forces reported 43 Communists killed in the 1st Corps area Tuesday in a rash of small but stiff firefights. The U.S. Command said American casualties were 3 killed and 32 wounded.

South Vietnamese infantrymen claimed 62 Viet Cong killed in two clashes 29 miles south of Da Nang. "Very light" South Vietnamese casualties were reported.

Communist rocket and mortar attacks continued against allied posts just below the demilitarized zone, with about 120 rounds hitting U.S. Marine posts at Con Thien and west of Gio Linh and a South Vietnamese district headquarters at Gio Linh. Two Marines were reported killed and eight wounded. The South Vietnamese said they had light casualties.

Two heavy Communist assaults were reported during the night in the highlands, both in Kontum Province, which is menaced by strong fresh Communist troops using Laos as a haven. Details of both attacks were sketchy.

In one, a Red battalion of about 500 men was reported to have struck American Army forces for five hours before being beaten off at 1 a.m. with the assistance of flareships and low-flying planes firing Gatling guns.

In the foothills in Binh Dinh Province, troops of the U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airborne, Division reported continuing skirmishes. In clashes Tuesday two cavalrymen died and 28 were wounded.

The U.S. Command announced 23 major ground sweeps are now under way at various points in South Vietnam.

A total of 124 strike missions were flown against North Vietnam Tuesday. Major targets

Israel Also Condemned as Aggressor

By DAVID MASON
PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle accused Israel today of starting the Middle East war June 5 but said the conflict was in effect caused by what he called U.S. intervention in Vietnam.

"The war in Vietnam created a psychological and political process which led to the fighting in the Middle East," he told the cabinet.

De Gaulle said France "condemns the opening of hostilities by Israel." Previously France had avoided putting the blame on either Israel or the Arab states.

De Gaulle noted that France had tried to get the Big Four—the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France—"to unite in opposition to the use of arms" in the Middle East.

"Today, France does not recognize any of the changes realized on the ground by military action," he said.

This was a reference to French policy of opposing Israel's attempt to hold any of the land captured from the Arabs in the six-day war.

De Gaulle's views were contained in a statement handed to newsmen following the cabinet meeting.

The president declared that the world is threatened by spreading conflicts. He asserted that peace can only be saved if the United States gets out of Vietnam, a war he blamed on U.S. intervention.

In his strongest statement yet on the Vietnam war, De Gaulle said:

"The spirit and fact of war are spreading again across the world. One conflict contributes to causing another.

"The war started in Vietnam by American intervention," he said, cannot help but spread trouble, not only there but far away."

"France has taken a position against the war in Vietnam and against foreign intervention which caused it. It has maintained since the start that this conflict can only cease through the pledge that America would make to withdraw her forces within a given time."

De Gaulle's gloomy picture of the world scene was drawn following recent talks with Premier Alexei N. Kosygin of the Soviet Union and Prime Minister Harold Wilson of Britain.

"France considers that there is no chance of arriving at a peaceful settlement in the present world situation unless a new world element appears," he said.

"This element could and should be the end of the war in Vietnam, by the termination of foreign intervention."

Educational Program on Drugs Proposed

By STEPHEN M. AUG
WASHINGTON (AP) — A consultant to the president's crime commission recommended today, to prevent drug abuse, that educational programs about drugs begin in elementary schools.

The consultant, Richard H. Blum of Stanford University, counting everything from coffee and aspirin to heroin, pictured the United States as a nation of drug users.

He also called for vastly increased studies of the effects of such drugs as marijuana and LSD.

The present known risks of using marijuana are not great, he said, and he recommended legislation that would lessen penalties for its use and possession.

Three studies by Blum were contained in a report on narcotics and drug abuse prepared by a task force of the President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice.

The report, released today, is the eighth of nine specialized studies to be published by the commission. All the specialized reports were summarized in the commission's over-all report published last February.

In an accompanying statement, Nicholas Katzenbach, commission chairman, undersecretary of state and a former attorney general, called for expanded efforts to reduce the flow of narcotics into the nation's cities.

Katzenbach also urged increased research and treatment of addiction and broadened education programs — directed particularly at young people — relating to the dangers of drug abuse.

The report estimates that at least 3,300 pounds of heroin are smuggled into the United States each year. It noted that 22 pounds of opium — the base of heroin — can be purchased on the black market from Turkish farmers for about $350.

The refined opium, when sold as heroin, will bring at least $225,000 in the United States.

The report included much material that was released in the commission's general report last February.

Several key recommendations by the commission include:

- State and federal drug laws should give a large measure of discretion to courts and correctional agencies to enable them to deal flexibly with violators.
- The National Institute of Mental Health should conduct a research program on marijuana and should develop a broad educational program to disseminate factual information about drugs.

Negro Man Killed in Atlanta Riots

By JOE ZELLNER
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A Negro man was shot to death and three other persons wounded Tuesday night as a flurry of rock and gas-bomb throwing evolved swiftly into gunfire from snipers and police.

Mayor Ivan Allen clamped a curfew on a six-block area encompassing the center of violence in predominantly Negro Dixie Hills.

Allen issued the order after visiting the area shortly after a fourth straight night of violence had subsided. The curfew bans persons under 18 from the streets from 7 p.m. to 7 a.m., and adults from 9 p.m. to 6 a.m.

The half-hour of violence erupted despite efforts of Negro leaders to quell disturbances after two persons were injured and 11 arrested Monday night.

As gunshots rang out in the V-shaped, middle-class apartment complex, officers armed with shotguns, rifles, pistols and clubs swarmed between the buildings, clearing streets and sidewalks of residents.

Two Negroes, who claimed they saw the Negroes shot, charged that police fired the shots which killed the Negro man and wounded a young Negro boy.

The Rev. Joseph E. Boone, a leader of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, charged, "It's an absolute lie that the wounded and dead were shot by other than police fire."

A hospital spokesman identified the dead man as Timothy Ross, 46, reportedly struck in the head by a bullet. A 9-year-old Negro boy, Reginald Rivers, reportedly shot in the stomach, underwent surgery at the hospital. Two other Negroes, Catherine Duncan, 51, and Marlon Ward, 31, received gunshot wounds in the hand.

Douglas Richmond, a young Negro shot in the leg by a police officer Monday, claimed later that he saw a man hide behind a car, throw a gas bomb at police and run.

He said the policemen opened fire, and the bullets cut down Ross, who Richmond said was trying to get up the steps to an apartment. However, he said Ross was not the man who threw the gas bomb.

Daniel Thomas, who also said he saw officers firing, said bullets fired by police on top of a shopping center hit the 9-year-old boy.

Police Supt. J. F. Brown, who controlled the police contingent centered around the shopping center, disputed the charges. He said he was watching two officers at whom the gas bomb was thrown and heard no shots and did not see either officer raise his gun.

Russia Sounds First Sour Note at UN

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — The first sour note in the U.N. debate on the Arab-Israeli war came with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin's walkout while Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban was replying to his speech.

It was rude, and the Soviets explained later Kosygin had to leave to keep an appointment. But millions saw this on television.

No doubt many concluded Kosygin was expressing contempt for reasonable debate, that he was relying on power politics—the number of nations already lined up on Moscow's side—to win the day for him.

Even if this were not a cynical act, before the first day's discussion was over Monday it was clear this debate was going to be neither altruistic nor idealistic. But nobody ever thought it would be.

Moscow asked for debate in the U.N. General Assembly, wanting Israel condemned as an aggressor, told to give back the land it had captured from the Arabs, and ordered to pay for damage done them in the startlingly short war.

In order to get in a word ahead of time, one hour before the assembly was due to meet President Johnson took to television, too, to lay out this country's ideas for restoring peace

Television and Radio

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Heading home Tuesday, this reporter encountered what looked at first like a traffic accident.

The seeming wreckage, surrounded by cops and crowds of curious, turned out to be television-filming gear. Working in the busy street were three men worth perhaps a combined $75,000 a night in clubs: Danny Thomas, Sid Caesar and Don Adams.

It was like the movies' silent days, when Chaplin, Lloyd and Langdon filmed outdoors. But now there were problems of extraneous noise and big-city crowd control.

"Hold the traffic!" a man bawled through an electronic megaphone at four off-duty Los Angeles policemen hired for the day.

The cops held up their arms. Cars backed up on residential Larchmont Boulevard for a block in each direction from 2nd Street.

"Action!" The actors have just stopped in their Rolls-Royce by a motorcycle cop — movie variety — for speeding. "Vat's the beeg trouble?" Caesar rages, pretending to be a Russian diplomat.

"That kid's getting into the shot and it was so good!" executive producer Aaron Spelling yells, halting the take as a boy approaches on the sidewalk and takes his place in the crowd.

Another try succeeds, and during a break the pipe-smoking Spelling tells why they're shooting here: "You've got to get out today in TV, to compete with the movies. We'll be at Hollywood Park racetrack tomorrow. This morning we were at the Ambassador Hotel."

They paid the Ambassador $500 for electricity and use of bellboys, lobby, lawn, etc. Automatically, the hotel listed "Thomas-Spelling production" on its lobby billboard along with the day's club meetings.

Hotel loiterers crowded up to Caesar and said, "You're Sid Caesar. You've lost a lot of weight." To Don Adams they said: "Would you believe?" and "sorry about that!"

The street crowd of a hundred, mostly kids in T-shirts and bare legs, thrusts ballpoints and tattered scraps of school notebook paper at the stars. Adams, Caesar and Thomas dutifully, gravely sign — on car hood, car door or palm of hand. A gray-haired man tells Thomas: "I need it for my grandchild." Thomas obliges.

Producer Spelling remarks: "The city of New York is doing everything it can to get Hollywood to shoot back there: fleets of cabs, cut-rate prices at hotels. It's Mayor Lindsay's pet baby. Movies can afford it, but not much TV."

Someone asks Spelling what they're shooting. "Instant Money," for the Danny Thomas hour," he says. "NBC, Monday nights, starting Sept. 11."

The final take requires Thomas, Caesar and Adams to drive by in the Rolls. Passing cars get into the scene. "Damn it!" an assistant groans. Then, to a boy on a bike: "Hold it, kid!"

In the Middle East.
But Eban's was the most brilliant speech of the day, in or out of the United Nations. It was a classic example of making a case by eliminating literary flourishes, which Johnson almost always tries, and relying entirely upon documentation.

He cited not only all the threats Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser made about demolishing Israel before the war began but listed by number, which must have startled the Soviets, how many weapons they had given Egypt.

Nevertheless, the Kosygin-Eban debate was very often on the intellectual level of tit-for-tat.

To show long-time Soviet prejudice against Israel, Eban listed the times through the years when Moscow sided with the Arabs in U.N. problems. And he accused Moscow of encouraging the Arabs in building up the Mideast frenzy.

Kosygin condemned the Israelis as aggressors, accused the United States and Britain of encouraging them to violence, and declared Mideast peace is possible only if the Israelis withdraw from the captured Arab land.

While there was little new in the hours of discussion, anyone who followed the war controversy closely probably wound up the day just as much impressed by what was left unsaid as by anything Eban and Kosygin did say.

For instance, Kosygin never mentioned the Gulf of Aqaba although from the moment Nasser closed it to Israeli shipping, promising it was closed for good, Israel and the Arabs were on a collision course.

Both Johnson and Eban singled out the gulf blockade as the most critical move in the series of events which led to war.

Johnson, putting the blame on Nasser, said: "If a single act of folly was more responsible for this explosion than any other, it was the arbitrary and announced decision" that closed the gulf.

Eban called the blockade the turning point in the crisis.

Yet Eban, despite his impressive documentation against the Soviet Union and Egypt, never mentioned who fired the first shot in the war.

Wednesday, June 21, 1967

But this is an important point, never yet clearly determined, since the whole basis for the Soviets bringing the case before the United Nations is their charge that Israel was the aggressor.

From the moment Kosygin decided to fly to New York for the debate, the reason seemed clear enough: to mollify the Arabs who felt let down by Moscow's failure to help them in the war after promising it would support them.

If the General Assembly refused to condemn Israel, after Kosygin made his long trip and big pitch, asking the condemnation, the Soviets could always tell the Arabs they had done all they could to help.

If this is at the root of Soviet thinking about the debate, it, too, might explain Kosygin's indifference while Eban was making his case for Israel.

Kosygin, a mild-mannered man, looks more like a technician or administrator than an innovator such as Nikita Khrushchev. Khrushchev on his own might have been glad to take on mentioned who fired the first Johnson.

Legislatures Taking Bigger Tax Bites

CHICAGO (AP) — State legislatures are taking bigger and bigger tax bites either through tapping new sources of funds or by increasing rates, a survey showed today.

The survey was made by Commerce Clearing House, a private agency that reports to its subscribers on tax and business law. It summarized major tax changes enacted so far in 1967 thus:

Nebraska has levied both a corporate and personal income tax, effective for income earned or received on or after Jan. 1, 1968, with rates to be set annually by the State Board of Equalization and Assessment.

West Virginia will begin levying a 6 per cent corporate net income tax, effective July 1, 1967.

Corporate income taxes have been boosted in three states—in Maryland from 5 per cent to 5½ per cent, in Montana from 5½ per cent to 5½ per cent, and in Tennessee from 4 per cent to 5 per cent.

Minnesota has hiked the basic income tax rates on corporations from 7½ per cent to 8½ per cent, and on banks from 9½ per cent to 10½ per cent. North Dakota also boosted the tax on banks from 4 per cent to 5 per cent. Vermont levied a 5 per cent franchise tax on financial institutions.

Maryland imposed a graduated income tax based on the federal law replacing the classified tax on ordinary and investment income.

Vermont now levies its personal income tax as a percentage of federal tax liability, with adjustments, and in Montana a combination of increased personal income tax rates and a 5 per cent tax credit carries the effect of boosting the tax in the lower and highest brackets and decreasing the tax in some intermediate brackets.

North Carolina cut income taxes by increasing exemptions.

While Kansas has lowered its personal income tax on the first $2,000 of taxable income, from 2½ to 2 per cent, Minnesota has extended its boosted individual income tax rates presently in effect as well as the additional taxes and surtaxes on banks and corporations.

With enactment of two new sales and use taxes so far this year, 44 states and the District of Columbia now levy these revenue producers.

Nebraska's 2½ per cent tax became effective June 1. Minnesota will begin imposing a 3 per cent tax to replace the expired 2¼ per cent sales tax and former 2¼ per cent use tax.

Sales and use tax increases were enacted in Rhode Island—4 per cent to 5 per cent; Washington—4.2 per cent to 4½ per cent; and in Wyoming—2½ per cent to 3 per cent.

Texas has authorized local sales and use taxes of 1 per cent which would apply to the same property and allow the same exemptions as the 2 per cent state tax.

Novels of West to Be Around

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) — Western novels will be around for many years, an editor, who is attending the annual convention of the Western Writers of America, said here Tuesday.

"I believe interest in westerns is on the downgrade at the time," said Donald Wollheim, editor-in-chief of Ace Books of New York, the nation's largest publisher of paperback western novels.

"But westerns always have their ups and downs," Wollheim said, "and I think they'll be around for many years."

The WWA opened its convention Monday and it will continue through Thursday.

Wollheim said the western novel reader today wants a romantic version of the old West and not as it naturally existed. "The reader must see a lone man going up against great odds to save his cattle, his ranch, his water or whatever and triumph over all evil," he said.

DOING WHAT COMES NATURALLY to millions of Americans — water skiing! Ten years ago, sliding over water on a pair of slats was the fastest growing aquatic sport in the world. Today, it still is. Take a fast boat, add a lovely girl or two (or three) on water skis, and head out across the lake. That's warm-weather fun at its best. Photo, courtesy fun-loving Johnson Motors.

CHECK-LIST FOR BOATING SAFETY

Recreational boating is one of the safest outdoor sports. There are few accidents and even fewer serious injuries and fatalities. But since there is still an element of risk, no matter how small, boat owners are reminded to conduct a safety countdown before each cruise.

A safety check list suggested by an oil products company in a booklet covers these eight important points:

- Check the weather conditions expected.
- Tell someone on shore where you are going and when you expect to arrive.
- Check your compass and lay out a course.
- Test lights, horn, all engines and clutches.
- Are there enough life preservers and are they in good condition?
- See to it that the anchor is ready to go and that it is well secured to the boat.

- Look over your first aid kit. Is it completely stocked?
 - Have you all the fuel and oil you will need?
- When you are okeh on all these points, and only then, you are ready to go.

The booklet, Safety Afloat, is offered by Mobil Oil Corporation.

Wise Parents Prepare Small Vacationers For The Big Trip

For the pre-school youngster, the family's summer vacation trip might bring his first view of a giant redwood or the Lincoln Memorial, his first train or plane ride or his first camping expedition. However the family decides to spend that two or three week vacation, the new sights and experiences can be frightening and confusing — or exciting and meaningful to the pre-school child.

The pre-schooler who has some idea of what he will see and what he will encounter on vacation will enjoy the trip far more than the one who is uprooted from his familiar surroundings with no more warning than "We're going on vacation". And it is the wise parent who knows that preparing the pre-school child for a trip will make the vacation more fun and relaxing for the whole family.

Playskool Research recommends preparing the child for the trip in advance and suggests these steps for explaining the "how" and "what" of the vacation trip to the youngster:

Show him, on a map, his home city and the vacation area. Tell him about differences in climate or customs. If there are older children in the family too, learning about the vacation area in advance can become a family project.

Show him pictures of some of the things he will see — a lake and a boat, the Statue of Liberty, a swimming pool, mountains or a cable car. If the trip includes a visit to seldom-seen relatives in a far-away city, pictures of Uncle George or Cousin Susan will help him overcome shyness at meeting new people.

Tell him how he will be traveling — family car, plane, train, boat — and explain any restrictions that will be necessary for everyone in the family such as seat belts on airplanes and "sitting still" on trains and cars.

Relate some of his toys to the trip. With a puzzle plaque map of the U.S., for example, he can learn-while-playing to locate his own state and those he will visit. With wooden trains, planes, or a toy car like the airlines use to transport baggage from plane to terminal, he can "imagine" himself into the situation. With his blocks, he can "build" the motel or cottage where he will stay.

Let him help with the packing. If possible, let him have his own small suitcase for his clothes. Explain to him why certain clothes are necessary — "You'll need your sweater because it's cool at the lake", or "You can wear this when we eat dinner in the restaurant".

Let him take along one or two of his favorite toys. They will mean "home" to him in an unfamiliar situation and will give him something to play with enroute.

Buy one or two new toys for him in advance of the trip. Even on vacations, there are hours when "there's nothing to do" and a new playtool will be more meaningful for him than a souvenir of the vacation spot.

When a pre-schooler understands that he, too, is helping to plan the trip, the vacation will become more memorable for the family, for everyone is sure to capture some of the special "first" wonder and excitement that only a pre-schooler can share.

Good & Lazy; Your Cooking Can Be Both!

Perhaps your family is eagerly looking forward to a wonderful two weeks vacation at a summer cottage. Or maybe you're going to try a camping trip this year, complete with tent, bedrolls and outdoor cooking gear. Cottage or camp, cooking three meals a day is still your job . . . and what a job it can be when fresh air and sunshine give everyone a lumberjack appetite.

To help you enjoy your vacation more . . . with more time for fun and less time over a hot stove . . . the Instant Potato Products Association offers these helpful vacation meal planning ideas.

First of all, make up basic menus for every day of your vacation before you start out. Actually write them down. Then you won't have to decide, "What will we have for dinner?" when you'd rather be snoozing in a hammock.

Plan your menus around hearty, quick-to-fix convenience foods . . . canned meats, instant fruit drinks, dessert mixes and, of course, instant potatoes. All these items pack easily and keep without refrigeration. Since all the mussy, fussy work of preparing them is done for you, you can put a tasty meal on the table in no time at all.

To satisfy hearty outdoor appetites, nothing beats creamy mashed potatoes, crisp hashed browns, or a spicy potato salad. Any of these nutritious, energy-boosting potato favorites take just minutes to prepare with new instant potato products.

To give your meals variety, be sure you take along an adequate supply of your favorite seasonings and condiments. A few instant onion flakes or a dash of barbecue salt added to instant mashed potatoes give a flavor lift to a quickie dinner.

With your menus planned and KP cut to a minimum, you'll be ready to squeeze every minute of fun and relaxation from your vacation days. Convenience foods can turn the trick . . . just try them and see.

SAILBOAT RACING

In numbers that have more than doubled to some 100,000 over the past decade, smaller open-cockpit sailboats ranging up to 24 ft. in length will be seen this summer traveling the nation's highways on trailers behind the cars of vacationing families. With wives and children for crew on the two or three-person small boats, the vacationing sailors will usually be en route to major regional or national regattas staged annually by the largest sailboat classes.

YEAR-ROUND "OUTDOOR" LIVING made possible by a glass-enclosed patio that lets you enjoy the outdoors through every season, not just at vacation time. For maximum visibility and year-round comfort, glass "walls" formed by a series of sliding doors are an ideal choice. These stock doors of ponderosa pine have insulating glass and weatherstripped wood sash to cut heat loss and air infiltration and to prevent bothersome condensation.

JUST A MINUTE. In just 60 seconds this curvaceous lady will have a color photo of herself. Or if the photographer is in a hurry, and is using black-and-white film, he'll be able to gift her with a photo in 15 seconds. In any case, the instant photo camera is fun to use outdoors all summer, at home, or on vacation, and you know whether you have the picture you want, on the spot. Photo, courtesy Polaroid Corporation.

MAKE GOOD TIMES LAST!

No matter what the calendar says, you can make your summer last longer this year.

The secret to prolonging your summertime fun is to capture it on film. Happy times on vacation trips, at pool-side parties, or right in your own backyard become indelible memories with the click of a shutter.

And with so many fine cameras now available for the amateur, you'll find picture taking itself part of your outdoor living pleasure. Among these, Polaroid Land cameras in particular seem to be built for summertime vacation enjoyment.

Not only are the cameras simple to use, with their built-in electric eyes, but you — and your subjects — get to see the results at once. It takes just 15 seconds for black and white, and 60 seconds for color prints to develop outside of the camera.

For those bound for far-off, once-in-a-lifetime vacation spots, these instant photos should have particular appeal. Whether it's a breathtaking view of the Grand Canyon or the grandeur of Rome, you see the photo immediately.

This also eliminates the disappointment of missing a photo in a place you'll not be visiting again soon.

New friendships can often make the difference between a "wonderful time" vacation and an "okay, but..." sojourn. The pretty girl by the pool will soon be chatting happily with the bachelor who hands her a flattering photo of herself. And it's just as simple to get acquainted with another couple by asking them to take your photo in trade for a photo of themselves.

Handy Snack:

Cherries now come dried in a new convenience form just right as carry-along snacks or energy pick-me-ups for outdoor activities.

They are available in pocket-sized plastic packets that are handy for picnic baskets, knapsacks, or shirt or jacket pockets. First popular with skiers, the dried cherries have been adopted by hikers, climbers, fishermen and others who like in-action food concentrated for easy carrying.

Called Reddi-Maid Nuggets, the red, tart, sugared cherries come in six-ounce plastic bags.

VACATION GOOD LOOKS: INS & OUTS

The "in" vacation this year could be working on a wind-jammer or making an amateur feature film on location. Or it might be a spelunking expedition, or treasure hunting or beachcombing. What it isn't is the old-fashioned two weeks at the shore or mountains, waiting for the planned activities to happen.

A similar revolution has taken place in vacation good looks. Why waste hours on old-fashioned grooming methods when you could be where the action is! Before you pack, check yourself on these beauty ins and outs compiled by the Pacquin skin-care specialists.

Skin's In

Lots of skin is showing this season. Are you prepared? Sun, wind, sea and sand all can contribute to dehydration and an armadillo look, if you're not careful.

Protect those precious oils by applying an emollient cream as a daily barrier against dryness. Perfect for travelers and sailors is new dry-skin cream in an unbreakable tube. Its lanolin-enriched formula softens, smooths and moisturizes without greasiness. If you prefer a lotion, apply a fragrant, fast-absorbing lotion for extra dry skin.

Goo Is Out

Good riddance to heavy, elaborate make-up! The new natural look is appealing, and most suitable for sunny vacation days and starry nights. To achieve it, keep your complexion clear and clean with a new Rinse-Off cold cream that removes grime and make-up without soap — just warm water. Not drying, not greasy, the exciting modern cold cream also protects skin with a light film for a fresh, dewy feeling. It is an excellent base for a daytime dusting of make-up, and it can be used as a night cream to counteract the drying effects of the sun.

SUMMER BARGAINS

If your vacation budget's straining at all the extra things you need — children's playclothes, swimwear, equipment for outdoor living — check your local Goodwill Industries before despairing. Shops feature a vast selection of bargain-priced, almost-new apparel and miscellaneous items, all repaired and refinished by skilled handicapped workers who restore donated merchandise.

Sensitivity to light is an individual matter. Some people have a greater need for sunglasses than others.
